FROM THE DEPARTMENT CHAIR

History is alive and well! That sentiment is true on so many levels. This past weekend I served as a judge in the National History Day competition, an event made up of young people grades six through twelve from throughout the Greater Kansas City region. It was a joy to witness eager students who were excited to produce and present historical research. You can read more about this event and see some of the projects by clicking here.

In addition to connecting with future UMKC students, the history department will soon be connecting with its alumni at the Department of History Alumni Trivia Night. We invite all interested parties to attend whether they were enrolled at UMKC or not (but you must be 21 years of age or older). You can read more about this trivia event by clicking here.

History is all around us, and I encourage you to keep reading to learn about all that that we have happening.

FUNDRAISER: HAAG HALL MURALS

FUNDRAISER: DON QUIXOTE IN THE MODERN WORLD RESTORATION

Many, may or may not know, that UMKC is home to a priceless treasure, and it resides on the second floor of Haag Hall. Between 1940 and 1941, Spanish artist and political refugee Luis Quintanilla, came to the University of Kansas City (today UMKC) and painted a series of murals depicting a retelling of Don Quixote circa 1940s America.

These murals, created in Quintanilla's unique artistic style, convey a powerful message about America's quixotic attitude towards World War II and the dangers of fascism which were ravaging Europe. Quintanilla used the university's own students, faculty, and staff as the models for his work. Today, the murals represent the largest surviving work of Quintanilla.

It has been nearly 30 years since conservation work was last performed. Since that time, colors have faded, spots have worn thin, and chips have fallen from the plaster. This fundraiser is an effort to help preserve this treasure for future generations. Moreover, it seeks funding to help the university provide education and interpretation for the murals through signage. See the fundraiser site for more information.

Cost Breakdown:

- Restoration and Preservation: $2,000
- Interpretive Signage: $500

Please consider making a small donation to help save a piece of history.

SHARING THE UNTOLD STORIES OF OUR COMMUNITY: CLIO AND THE SCHOOL OF

HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

The video, produced by UMKC, tells the story of Clio, an educational website and mobile application, developed by Dr. David Trowbridge, William T. Kemper Associate Research Professor in Digital and Public Humanities with the Department of History at UMKC. Clio users utilize the site to help guide the public to thousands of historical and cultural sites throughout the United States. In Kansas City, the site is helping to share the heritage and historic sites of underrepresented communities and neighborhoods across the metro.

UMKC graduate student Christina Loya (featured in the video), used Clio to create a self-guided walking tour of the Latinx Heritage Trail. The video also features Dr. Trowbridge's work with the Black Archives of Mid-America in which he helped to create a 360-degree tour of African American historic sites in the region.

PROGRAM OF STUDY (POS) FORMS

What is a Program of Study? If you are a graduate student and don't know the answer to this question, you must keep reading. The Program of Study (POS), sometimes called a "Plan of Study," is a document that defines the faculty committee overseeing your work and outlines the courses you will take to satisfy your degree requirements. All Master of Arts students regardless of emphasis, must have a POS, signed by their committee members, on file with the history department and School of Graduate Studies (SGS) no later than completion of 15 credits!

The document should act as a guide for both the student and advisor during each academic advising session to ensure you are on track and making progress toward the completion of your degree. It is okay if your committee or courses change, but these changes must be acknowledged with a revised POS. Students who are candidates for graduation must submit the final version of this document to the department at the beginning of the semester they plan to graduate. The form can be found here.

All IPh.D. students must have an interdisciplinary Ph.D. POS on file with the department and the School of Graduate Studies (SGS). The form can be found here.
